Technical drawing of a long-sleeved shirt pattern, showing front, back, and sleeve views. The drawing is composed of solid lines for the main pattern pieces and dashed lines for fold lines and seam allowances.

The top row shows the front and back views of the shirt body. The front view (left) includes a collar, a central placket with two vertical seam lines, and a hem. The back view (right) shows a similar collar and a hem. Both views have a center front and center back vertical fold line.

The bottom row shows the sleeve pattern pieces. The right sleeve (left) and left sleeve (right) are identical, featuring a curved top edge and a straight bottom edge with a hem. Each sleeve has a vertical center line and a horizontal line near the cuff.

Labels in Chinese characters identify the views:

- 前面 (Front View) - Located below the front view pattern.
- 背面 (Back View) - Located below the back view pattern.
- 右袖 (Right Sleeve) - Located to the left of the right sleeve pattern.
- 左袖 (Left Sleeve) - Located to the left of the left sleeve pattern.
